Pope Francis: 5 Ways to Avoid Being a Hypocrite

When I became an atheist, I was very disillusioned with Christians. My father worked for the Church in some capacity for most of my childhood and this exposed me to wonderful, loving people but also to what I like to call the “underbelly” of the Church. My dissatisfaction with religion was fueled by interactions and models of behavior among some Christians that were nothing like Christ. Now that I wear a veil and am a visible symbol of the Church, I am acutely aware that my sinfulness could push someone away from the faith. I try not to let this awareness cripple me, or push me to act like a Stepford nun, but I do allow it to spur me to desire greater holiness. Pope Francis has spoken a lot about the danger of hypocrisy during his pontificate saying “The sign that we are far from the Lord is hypocrisy.” Here are five pieces of advice from Pope Francis to avoid hypocrisy and grow in holiness.

1. Acknowledge Our Own Faults: Hypocrites often have their fingers pointed at everyone else but him or herself. But the first weapon against hypocrisy is to admit it openly and acknowledge that we are not perfect. Not all of us feel comfortable doing this; it seems that more of us put on a show to some degree to appear more put-together than we actually are. Pope Francis said once in a homily: “Men and women who can’t learn how to acknowledge their own faults become hypocrites. All of them? All of them: starting from the Pope downwards: all of them.”

2. Reach Out, Help Others: A hypocrite is unable to reach beyond his or her own interests, perhaps partly because maintaining a mask, and acting like someone he is not takes up so much energy. Pope Francis says: “Take care of the neighbor: the sick, the poor, the needy, the ignorant ... This is the yardstick. The hypocrites do not know how to do this, they can’t, because they are so full of themselves that they are blind on account of watching others.”

3. Pray with Tears: A person who prays draws closer to the light of God and this dazzling light allows us to see ourselves as we truly are. It is through prayer that we recognize the need to change, to become more like the God who we love. When we allow ourselves to cry, especially in prayer, it shows a level of authenticity and vulnerability that is impossible for the hypocrite who feels the need to maintain a façade of competence and self sufficiency. Pope Francis exhorts us saying: “[Ask for the] gift of tears [so] as to make our prayer and our journey of conversion ever more authentic and without hypocrisy.”

4. Avoid Excessive Formalism: When we fall into hypocrisy, we can put an excessive emphasis on rules, especially the ones we are following. This is not to say that rules are bad, but when a person loves rules more than the Gospel, our faith becomes more about exterior actions rather than exterior behavior and interior transformation. Both are necessary. Pope Francis spoke of this when pointing to the sin of “formalism”: “Christian hypocrites [are] only interested in their formalities. It was a Sabbath? No, you cannot do miracles on the Sabbath, the grace of God cannot work on Sabbath days. They close the door to the grace of God. We have so many in the Church, we have many! It is another sin.”

5. Learn the Language of Truth: One sure-fire way to avoid hypocrisy is to speak the truth in all situations. Hypocrites may have no problem pointing out other peoples’ faults but when it comes to self analysis, they are usually lacking. To avoid hypocrisy Pope Francis tells us that truth is essential: “[Hypocrites] do not like the truth. They only like themselves and so they try to deceive and to involve others in their falsehood, in their lying. They have a false heart, they are unable to tell the truth.” Christianity holds a high standard for us all and if we are honest with ourselves, we don’t meet it most of the time. The truth is we are all hypocrites; we desire to avoid sin and yet continue to sin. But it is also true that there is a hypocrisy of degrees, and we can strive to surrender our inconsistent behavior to Jesus to transform it. Jesus, I give you all within me that is lie, all that fights against the good in me, the person you made me to be. I surrender my hypocrisy to you and ask you to transform it, to make me more like you.

REFLECTION FOR THE 29TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Nobody enjoys paying taxes. Despite our displeasure in being forced to do so, we also realize that the monies generated from taxes allows governments to provide essential services for its people. Corruption really gets our goat, however. When we witness malfeasance, overspending, irresponsibility, and dishonesty in governmental spending, the grave injustices make an already unpleasant and arduous task even more difficult. The inappropriate distribution and use of hard-earned monies can leave a person quite angry and disconnected. It’s bad enough the government wants something from me, now God does, too?

God is not concerned necessarily with our money, although its proper use does factor into our faith life. As the payment of secular taxes speaks of our allegiance to the government, our return to God speaks of our allegiance to God. All of creation, even the entire universe, is fashioned in the image and likeness of God. What speaks to God and has meaning and relevance to him? All of creation and indeed our very selves! God delights in us and when we present ourselves back to him, he delights even more! As the payment of secular taxes is designed to secure the equitable distribution of goods and services to all people, so is our return of ourselves to God in gratitude meant to advance God’s kingdom here on earth.

When our exclusive and sincere allegiance is given to God, God can use us to set things right and straight again. The wounds of sin distort our relationship and disorder our world. By giving ourselves and all of creation back to God in gratitude, we acknowledge the proper Creator and Author of life for who He is and devote our labors exclusively to God’s kingdom and the justice, peace, or order God envisions. In giving back to God all that belongs to God, we set the axis of our lives correctly and put our priorities in proper order. All of our relationships, especially with God, our brothers and sisters, and all of creation are perceived more clearly as they really are. Using, accumulating, wasting, exploiting, hoarding, and self-preservation are no longer necessary.
